MADISON, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—The two remaining tax bills, the one introduced by the legislature following a constitutional amendment by the senate Saturday, and the one introduced by the senate Saturday, will be taken up by the conference of the two houses today.

Another such a conference would be held to draft a new revenue bill that could muster sufficient strength to go by the senate is considered doubtful because of the hostility of the governor and the speaker.

La Follette's Watch Slaughter
Robert M. La Follette, Jr., chairman of the Republican state central committee, Phil La Follette and Arthur C. General, Thomas L. Blaine and others, will be present.

Following the session, the younger La Follette declared that he was "not at all discouraged by the situation." He said that there was still time in which the progressives could carry out their platform pledges on taxation and that there would be no letup in their efforts.

Never before has the legislature passed such a session as that of Saturday. Several legislators said. After being held up throughout most of the week by a call of the house to carry out the emergency tax bill, the legislature met today.

At least ten important amendments to each of the four income tax bills, all of them involving large sums, were acted upon before the final roll call on the bill itself. Some amendments with millions of dollars riding on their acceptance or rejection.

FIVE REPORTED DEAD IN KANSAS FLOOD DISTRICT

Thousands Driven from Home
by High Water; Property Loss
Will Run Into Millions

HEAVY THREE-DAY RAIN SENDS KANSAS RIVERS OVER BANKS

Warnings Sent Out Through
Texas by Weather Bureau

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—By The Associated Press.—With five persons reported killed, thousands driven from their homes, and property damage estimated in the millions of dollars, many districts in Kansas remained flooded Monday. Torrential rains over the state for the last three days caused many rivers and smaller streams to overflow their banks, destroy crops in the lowlands and inundate residential and business sections of several towns.

In some places streams were reported receding and not much additional damage was expected. Arkansas City and Winfield, Kan., suffered greatly from the floods. Three thousand persons were declared homeless in Arkansas City in an appeal sent by the mayor for outside aid. He estimated the flood damage there at $2,000,000. Both the Arkansas and Walnut rivers were out of their banks there, and a large residential section of the city was flooded. One thousand persons were marooned in a schoolhouse and in other buildings in one part of the city.

Many Families Homeless
Winfield reported several hundred families homeless. Early Monday water from Walnut river was running through the center of the city. The water and light plant there as well as in many other towns was put out of commission.

Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe train No. 118, was isolated by high waters all day Sunday near Winfield. The passengers were removed to a special relief train in rowboats. There is no danger of a flood, according to P. Connor, local weather forecaster, although the Kaw and Missouri rivers have been rising somewhat. The Kaw river was reported rising around Topeka and floods were feared along the upper parts of the stream.

Trains generally were reported on time Monday with the exception of those passing through the flood districts in Kansas.

Warn Texas Residents
FORT WORTH, Tex.—Police were warned by United States weather bureau officials Monday morning to sound flood warnings. The water is 2 1/2 feet deep now and another rise is coming. Families are being advised to move to higher ground.

Oklahoma Heavy Sufferer
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—With the northern half of the state practically inundated, Oklahoma Monday marked a flood loss running into millions of dollars and faced still greater dangers in the swirl of waters which has ruined crops, demoralized rail traffic, and according to unofficial reports, cost the lives of several persons. Freight embargoes were expected to be placed on their broken lines by several roads. The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific line led the way when it announced an embargo on shipments west of Geary and north of Caldwell, Kansas.

NAMES OF ALL BETWEEN FOUR AND TWENTY ARE TO BE TAKEN

Citizens Asked to Co-operate in Expediting the Work

The school census of this city will be taken this week. Several persons are today beginning to canvass the entire city visiting all homes, and enrolling all the persons living in the city whose ages are over four years and under twenty years, whether attending school or not.

T. W. Pittman, who has been census taker the past two years, again has charge of the work this year. The purpose of the census is to determine the amount of state tax that the city is to receive. The apportionment is about four dollars for every person enrolled on the school census. Last year this city had about 8,000 such persons listed.

At the same time the state is asking that the census taker obtain the name of all persons who are handicapped, that is those who are disabled so that they are handicapped in pursuing their regular work.

All persons, regardless of age, are included according to the state law. The state is attempting to do some work in rehabilitation and this survey is taken so that some estimate of the amount of such work needed can be made and also where the likely applicants may be located. It is hoped that the census takers will have the co-operation of each home so that their work may be accurately and speedily done.

FRENCH SEE CHANCE OF BALKAN WAR AS RESULT OF REVOLUTION

Claim Change at Sofia Brings Back Old Pro-German Element

PARIS.—By The Associated Press.—Detachments sent to apprehend Stamboulsky, Bulgarian premier, deposed by revolutionists, have as yet failed in their missions, says a dispatch from Le Journal's Sofia correspondent. He adds that Stamboulsky Sunday was defending himself in his villa at Slavovitz with the aid of gendarmes and peasants.

The new government, headed by Prince Alexander Zankoff, is said to be willing that the former premier should leave the country as the ministry seeks above all to avoid bloodshed.

Reports from the province, says the correspondent, are that armored cars were sent to Plevna to disperse some thousands of peasants who had armed to resist the new regime. The ministry of war expresses the belief that this opposition was put down without difficulty, as was also a similar manifestation at Radomir.

Isolated shots were heard in Sofia on Saturday. All the shops in the city closed their doors, even to the bakers' establishments.

The capital was calm Sunday. See Prospects of War.

French officials are openly pessimistic over the situation created in Bulgaria and the Balkans by last Saturday morning's coup d'etat. Although there is the opinion that Stamboulsky's agrarians are strong enough numerically to bring him back to power, the attitude of Bulgaria's neighbor states is believed to be unfavorable to a revolutionary government, and there is some doubt she will be permitted to solve her problems herself.

The new regime at Sofia, it is apparent here, means the reappearance of the old pro-German element, some of the leaders of which have now come into prominence. These men are anti-Serbian.

The Havas correspondent says it is believed in the Bulgarian capital that King Boris knew of the revolutionary plan and is thought to view favorably the overthrow of Stamboulsky who put the monarch in the position of a figure-head. Premier Zankoff, says the writer, has been on intimate terms with the king. The new premier is a socialist professor of law in Sofia university, traveled extensively throughout Germany, Austria and Hungary during the war.

Jugo Slavia Watches
BELGRADE.—By The Associated Press.—The Jugo-Slav cabinet was called into session immediately the news of the Bulgarian coup became known. The government regards the revolution as an internal Bulgarian affair, but it feels that it cannot remain indifferent to the situation if the new Bulgarian government shows a disposition to disregard Bulgaria's peace obligations.

Will Carry Out Treaty
PARIS.—By The Associated Press.—The French government has received a message from the new Bulgarian government giving assurances that it intends to live up to the terms of the peace treaty and all other foreign engagements signed by the Stamboulsky government.

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—No event since the Greek revolution of last October has raised such apprehension in the minds of the foreign statesmen regarding the future stability of the Balkan states as the Bulgarian revolution. Doubt was expressed Sunday in many quarters whether the new revolutionary regime would be strong enough to resist the powerfully organized Agrarian party, which numbers among its members a great part of the Bulgarian peasantry.

Fear Civil War
Some observers fear the present episode may lead to civil war. In such an eventuality, they point out, the Bulgarian army would be helpless to cope with the situation, as it is merely a police organization of a few thousand men.

Several factors appear to have been behind the uprising. Among these are failure of the Macedonians to secure autonomy; thecession of Karagatch, which was part of Bulgaria before the war, to Turkey; denial to Bulgaria of an outlet on the Aegean sea; dissatisfaction with Stamboulsky's alleged autocratic methods and disapproval of the wholesale imprisonment of former cabinet ministers. "You shall reign, but you shall not govern," Stamboulsky is reported to have said.

Legislator Urges Probe Of "Tammany Hall Tactics" At Wisconsin State Capital

MADISON, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—An investigation going deeply into alleged deals and activities, of a "much more serious nature than those involved in the unexplained detention of Senator Bernard Moran", will be asked of the senate probably this week, Senator H. J. Severson, of Iowa, a leader in the insurgent faction, declared Monday. He intimated that state department heads and even state officials would come within the proposed quizzing, which he declared would concern "the most serious charges."

Senator Severson asserted that "without a doubt there was design behind the party that took Senator Moran to the Boscobel summer home on the eve of the tax fight," but he declared "this is only a minor matter compared to some of the other things that have been going on."

"I believe," the senator said, "that any investigation that is to be made should go to the very bottom of conditions here. The results would be more than startling," he added.

Before Senator Skogmo carries out his announced intention to introduce a resolution into the senate asking for a search into the reasons for Senator Moran's disappearance, the legislative leader who charges more serious maneuvers, says that he wants to be assured that the resolution is "broad enough to permit of a sweeping investigation."

He asserted that "although a progressive," he did not approve of "Tammany Hall tactics in Wisconsin."

PRESIDENT HARDING IN NEAR-ACCIDENT AT DELAWARE TOWN

Executive Narrowly Escapes Being Struck on Head by Cable at Lewes Pier

WASHINGTON.—President Harding and his party, arriving here after a trip to Delaware over the week-end, disembarked from the Mayflower about 5:30 o'clock, but the president before going to the white house inspected the naval airplane carrier Langley, which was lying at a dock near that at which his yacht had put in. Accompanied by Secretaries Work and Wallace, who were members of the Mayflower party, the president visited every portion of the Langley, going down into the boiler rooms, the airplane repair shops and through the quarters of the crew.

The cruise from Lewes, was made without incident. In addition to those who accompanied the president to Delaware by train the party on the Mayflower included Charles D. Hilles, republican national committeeman of New York. With the return of the Mayflower it was learned that the presidential party narrowly escaped what might have been a serious accident early Sunday at Lewes. Arriving at the dock there the party was placed on a hand propelled car for the trip to the end of the pier.

Just as the car was getting under way one of the secret service men was struck on the head by a cable stretched across the pier. The president, standing just behind him, saw the cable just in time to avoid it by ducking his head.

COURT APPROVES PAR CLEARANCE METHODS OF RESERVE BANKS

WASHINGTON.—Methods used by federal reserve banks in Georgia and Virginia to compel banks not members of that system to cash at par checks drawn upon them by their depositors which reach Federal Reserve banks for collection or clearance, were approved by the supreme court Monday in cases brought against the Federal Reserve banks at Atlanta, Ga., and Richmond, Va.

Justice Brandeis, delivering the opinion, stated that congress had not imposed on the Federal Reserve bank the duty to collect all checks at par and did not impose upon such banks a duty to introduce par clearance against the wishes of some of the banks affected. Justices Vandewater and Sutherland dissented.

The effect of the decision was to affirm the decision of the federal courts in Georgia, and to reverse the decision of the state courts in North Carolina.

FORCED TO GIVE BLOOD, HE SAVES WIFE HE KNIVED

CHICAGO, Ill.—In the midst of a quarrel with his wife on Saturday night, Theodore Marfy drew a knife and slashed her across the throat. Sunday he sat in a Chicago avenue station cell, having despoiled his residence, been forced to save the life he had attempted to take by the sacrifice of his own blood in an operation.

When Mrs. Marfy was taken to St. Mary's hospital, doctors declared that only an immediate blood transfusion could save her life. Detectives had just arrived with Marfy. "All right," they said, "here's your man."

Smuggling and protesting, Marfy was carried to the operating table and compelled to give up a pint and a half of his own blood to save the woman he had tried to kill. Sunday it was said that Mrs. Marfy will live.

URGES FRENCH ACCEPTANCE OF GERMAN OFFER

Latest Proposals from Berlin
Put Forward by Curzon as Basis for Negotiations Between Two Nations

WILL ASK GERMANY TO CEASE POLICY OF RUHR RESISTANCE

Success of Efforts Would Mean International Parley to Settle Dispute

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—Lord Curzon had an important conference with the French ambassador, Count Sain Aulaire, Monday morning, the British foreign secretary urging that the French government accept Berlin's latest reparations proposals as a basis for negotiations. If France will do this, Lord Curzon will inform Germany, it was stated, of the French government's willingness to discuss the problem collectively with the allies.

Great Britain, it is explained, will then endeavor to obtain from Berlin a pledge of the cancellation of the orders for passive resistance in the Ruhr which Premier Poincare has named as a condition precedent to any four parleys. If Germany acquiesced in this, steps would be taken to convene an international conference for the settlement of the whole dispute.

France Firm On Ruhr Stand
PARIS.—By The Associated Press.—No reply to the recent German note is considered necessary so far as France is concerned, it was said at the foreign office Monday forenoon, but if the allies desire to improve the opportunity to resume a general discussion of the reparations question, France is ready.

A reply by the allies in common, it is held in official circles, would require probably several weeks of negotiations because of the impossibility of their uniting in an answer until they themselves come to an arrangement. The only united action by the allies now feasible in the view of France, it was said, would be a common notice to Germany that she must cease her passive resistance to the execution of the treaty of Versailles. Afterward the allies would have the leisure to go all over the problem if they were disposed to do so, but France will insist that if the discussions are resumed they proceed on the basis of the French conditions as set forth at the Paris conference in January.

Won't Make Concessions
This means, it is explained, that France at present is still unwilling to make further concessions in order to render a united reply by the allies possible.

Premier Poincare will probably object to a new allied conference at least for the moment, it is thought. He is believed to prefer the more deliberate method of negotiation through diplomatic channels and will probably decline any suggestion to discuss reparations unless the allies consent to unite in giving Germany previous notice to cease obstruction in the Ruhr.

BRINGING UP FATHER

TRUCKS—TRACTORS REDUCE THE USE OF OATS IN COUNTRY

WASHINGTON.—Production of oats in the United States probably has reached its highest point, in the opinion of experts of the department of agriculture.

The yearbook of the department for 1922 declares the advent of motorized trucks, both in city and country, and of the tractor on the farm, are reducing markedly the commercial demand for feeding oats.

The result, it is predicted, will be to reduce acreage and production, which have increased rapidly, and consequently three million bushels of oats are available in 1922. The oat crop now ranks third in importance, the cereal being next to corn and wheat.

The importance of barley, which ranks fourth among cereals in this country, is increasing even though production is not. The average annual production of barley for the ten years ended in 1922 was about 183,000,000 bushels. The future outlook for this crop is said to be encouraging.

Rye is listed as an unimportant crop in this country, but there has been an increase in production since 1912, due to an increase in European demand which is expected to disappear later in large measure.

WEEDS CAUSE OF MUCH DAMAGE IN STATE EACH YEAR

MADISON, Wis.—Weeds cause a tremendous damage to Wisconsin farms each year and their eradication forms a work even more important as a means of increasing farm value than tuberculosis eradication among cattle, the biennial report of the commissioner of agriculture states.

"Investigation by the experiment station shows that loss in crop production through weeds frequently amounts to $35,000,000 annually," the report says. "A decrease of grain alone in 1917 on the leading grain markets amounts to $30,000,000. The weed eradication is possible."

"The east-central portion of the state is already so filled with quack grass and other objectionable weeds that it seems almost impossible to eradicate them. The western two-thirds of the state is still in a position where reasonable effort will eliminate noxious weeds. The condition of the eastern part of the state places warning that unless vigorous action is taken the entire state will be in an equally deplorable condition." The department points out that the weed eradication is possible.

WEEDS CAUSE OF MUCH DAMAGE IN STATE EACH YEAR

MADISON, Wis.—Weeds cause a tremendous damage to Wisconsin farms each year and their eradication forms a work even more important as a means of increasing farm value than tuberculosis eradication among cattle, the biennial report of the commissioner of agriculture states.

"Investigation by the experiment station shows that loss in crop production through weeds frequently amounts to $35,000,000 annually," the report says. "A decrease of grain alone in 1917 on the leading grain markets amounts to $30,000,000. The weed eradication is possible."

COMING OF THE LORD

WAITING for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, who shall return you to the end, that you may be blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ, 1 Corinthians 5:5.

Adopted Russians

A WISCONSIN man, a Madisonian, who has been a member of the American embassy at Constantinople, heralds the arrival of a number of Russian refugees in this country by the suggestion that his home town "adopt" one or more of the unfortunates, who are being brought to this country by the Red Cross and other American relief agencies. The Madison man, Victor Lenzner, thinks that the state capital should be able to find work for a few of the Russians, and he hopes that among them will be a student or two who might thus be enabled to enter the state university.

The refugees belong to the middle and upper classes of old Russia. For the most part they were participants in the revolution against bolshevism, and were forced to flee when these enterprises failed. Perhaps their destination is the most pitiable because they were accustomed to places of comfort and independence. At least it may be said that their influence in this country would be opposed to bolshevism, and they would bring to us a point of view quite different from the impractical sentimentalism which radical propagandists are sending from Russia.

While they would have handicaps in a new country, such as speech and the knowledge of social customs and business practices, in the main these men would possess qualities which would offset such disadvantages, and probably would possess ability of a high order.

Among the younger people coming out are some whom Mr. Lenzner would like to have placed in such institutions as the University of Wisconsin, through which they might develop a distinct value as Americans, coupled with their experiences in the Soviet regime. Others want jobs. They want to work into the country, to become citizens and to rehabilitate their fortunes here. Men and women who want the truth known about Russia, who want the fallacies of the new Russia to come home to Americans, may very well be interested in both angles of this proposal. They may feel it would be well to have some of these men who have suffered the pangs of a false economic theory injected into the university. Those who employ labor largely, and who are constantly conscious of bolshevik propaganda doing its insidious work, may conclude it would be well worth while could the knowledge of those who have paid the penalty of a disastrous fallacy mingle with the daily lives of American workmen apt to be deceived by the glamour of a picturesque conception of life as practically it can not be lived.

The Heart o' Us

A MIGHTY man was Paul Bunyon, who scooped the hole that formed Lake Superior; who caused trees to fall when he blew the horn which called his lumberjacks to dinner. This tattered giant, beloved of America's imaginative woodsmen from coast to coast, "hero of the only all-American folklore," reached the zenith of his powers in Wisconsin. So says Bert E. Hopkins, whose story is in the Wisconsin Magazine for June.

Views and stories that instill in lovers of the outdoors and nature an urge to climb into an auto and go journeying among the beautiful spots of the state or pack a canoe into the forest to float down some rapid, wild stream, are contained in this month's issue of the magazine.

In its third number, Wisconsin's periodical infant continues to bear out its purpose of teaching the reader to "Know Your Own State."

The June issue, as those of the other summer months will be, is designed especially to appeal to the summer tourist and vacationer. In it are views of forest, hill and stream, of limpid lake, mighty trees and logging drives, of tumbling falls and state parks, and of sand dunes that take on the enchantment of "beautiful wind carved hills."

The stories, too, contain much that can not fail to interest. How Stanley Lathrop, Madison Civil war veteran and capitol guide, named "Cold Water Canyon" at the Dells of the Wisconsin; the history of "Wisconsin's Romantic Archipelago and Frost Proof Section" of the Lake Superior region, by John H. Deniston; "Canoeing Down the Flambeau," by Louise La Berge; "The Dune Country," by Ray Van Handel; "Parks and Why," an interesting illustrated account of Wisconsin's parks by A. A. Fisk, secretary of the Wisconsin Lakes and Parks association; "The Romance of Great Lakes Navigation," by R. B. Plumb; "Pearl Fishing in Wisconsin," a tale of the industry and its discovery around Albany, on the banks of the Sugar river, by Mabel Batcheller; "Wisconsin's Capital City," by Margaret Smith; "The Dells of the Wisconsin," by Theodore T. Brown; "The Lynching Bee Tree," a history of one of Wisconsin's few cases of mob violence which took two lives within a few days at Portage, related by H. E. Cole; "Wisconsin, the Playground of the Middle West," a symposium written by high school students of the state who are filled with enthusiasm about Wisconsin beauty spots; "Wisconsin—The Beautiful," by C. E. Broughton—all these are but part of the contents of this interesting issue and all are told in picturesque style that can not help but make their appeal.

Perhaps some of the scenes were photographed in a day when the changes of civilization had not encroached upon their natural beauties; perhaps some of the places described are not as they were when the writer viewed them but they are still there and by no means have they lost their lure.

The magazine, which was founded during the past winter, already is growing rapidly, with Hardy Stechholm as president and editor-in-chief, B. B. Kneer, assistant editor and E. W. Chapeau, business and advertising manager, besides a long list of advisory editors who include many of the best known officials, educators, journalists and historians of the state.

The June issue sets a pace which causes the reader to wonder where the editors will find more beauties to describe than can surpass those portrayed this month.

Not Places But People

By CORONA REMINGTON

"But Janice, dear, it's in my blood and I love it. All my life except the six years I was at school I've lived in the forest. The trees are my friends and the squirrels and the rabbits summer and winter are events in my life. The first snowfall—all these things in nature send a thrill through me. There's something so marvellous about the different seasons and the changes that come with them; this great, wonderful, silent force that makes the sap rise in the trees and the birds mate, that ripens the fruit and turns the leaves red. What is it? Sometimes in my long tramps through the woods, I've been almost overwhelmed by the wonder of it and I've longed for some one who could feel it as I do—and understand."

"I do understand, Harvey," Janice Weatherly told him earnestly, "but you don't seem to see what it would mean to me to give up all my friends and go way off there a million miles from nowhere and rough it with you."

"I know, dear, I guess I've asked too much. But you wouldn't be exactly roughing it. I have a seven room house with furnace heat and you could have all the servants you wanted. And after all, it's only thirty-five miles from Carterville, a city of nearly fifty thousand. We have the car and the roads are good—you could run in as often as you liked."

Harvey Turner looked with troubled eyes at the girl by his side, dainty, well dressed, charming—a product of the big city, a housewife plant. He felt that it was absurd to ask her to drop everything and go with him out to the great forest where all his interests were. Yet he loved her he wanted her, he must have her.

"Can't you get some other kind of position?" she asked after a while.

"It's the only sort of thing I've ever done. It's the only thing I've been trained to do and besides Janice, I love it. Do you think you'd be so very unhappy and lonely? You seemed to enjoy the six weeks you spent there last summer camping."

"Yes, but that was summer time when the woods were full of life. What must it be like in winter?"

"In a way it's more wonderful. I know six or seven city families who live within a dozen miles of us and they seem perfectly contented. They're all friends of mine and we'd see them often. A few miles mean nothing out there—they'd be practically next door neighbors to us."

"I know, but I'm afraid to go into it. Suppose I simply couldn't stand it. It's all so new to me. Can't you—can't you do something else?"

"That's my life work, Janice," Harvey Turner answered quietly.

"Then I guess I'll have to say 'no,'" she said, her voice trembling.

Turner's face turned white, but he replied calmly enough "While I accept the inevitable, I would not persuade you against your will for I want you to be happy, dear."

"Oh, Harvey, Harvey, don't be so dreadfully gentle with me. If you'd only call me a little coward or a slacker or some of the things that I really am," she cried desperately.

"You mustn't talk like that," he soothed, stroking her hand.

Once out of the house Turner did not seem to care much where he was going. For hours he walked and walked. For the first time in his life he was tasting defeat, bitter defeat, and the worst was that he was so helpless. There was nothing he could do. His hands were tied.

The next morning he started home and arriving there the following day looked about him with strange staring eyes. Could this be his friendly forest, the warm welcoming trees, the clattering birds that he had always loved? It was dreary, quiet, not a comfortable quiet, but an oppressive quiet; an odd stiffness everywhere that made him feel like shouting just for the satisfaction of hearing a human sound. He understood now why the country boys yahoohood when going through the woods alone. It was as if everything he loved in nature had suddenly died and left instead only strange unfriendly ghosts.

That was it, he reflected bitterly. Something had died, but it was not in the forest; it was in him.

"Good morning, Mr. Harvey." It was his own man servant greeting him in his living room. "Sorrow thought you might turn up today, so I got some fresh sausage and pan-fried ready for breakfast."

Turner dropped his bag on a chair and threw his overcoat on top of it.

"Now I come to think of it I am rather hungry, John," he said, trying to speak cheerfully, but John did not fail to notice that something had gone wrong.

Turner's unbounded good health came to his rescue. But as the days passed the blank loneliness of his life seemed to depress him more and more and there were times when he wondered what the end would be.

Three months passed and he had not heard from Janice, although each day he secretly hoped to get a letter. She'd probably forgotten his very existence by now, he reflected, as he ran through his mail at the breakfast table one morning.

Suddenly he heard the front door slam and quick feet hurrying through the living room. The door flew open and Janice stood before him.

"Oh, Harvey, take me, won't you?" she pleaded, advancing toward him. "I tried to tough it out, but I couldn't stand it another second without you. I know now I'm going to love the forest because you do. I didn't understand, but now I know that it isn't the place itself but the people in the place that make you love it or hate it. I'm sure I'd simply adore the desert of Sahara if you were there."

Turner swept her into his arms.

"Oh, my dear, my dear," he said brokenly, "are you quite sure? I couldn't stand it if you changed your mind now."

"Oh, quite," she laughed happily. "I've been hoping every day you'd write and ask me to reconsider, but as you didn't and I couldn't stand it any longer I had to swallow my pride and come up here and propose to you myself. It's awful!"

"If that's all that's worrying you I'll come down to Newport and formally ask you to marry me all over again," he laughed. "I'll even tackle your father."

"That reminds me Dad's outside in the taxi and he's dreadfully hungry. He said he hoped to heaven you'd ask him in to breakfast."

"You just bet we will," he exclaimed, starting toward the door, "and we'll kill the fatted calf too!"

BOOSTER DAY

THE livestock boosters' day, which will be held on the grounds of the La Crosse County Agricultural school in the near future, is one of the most significant events, from the standpoint of the stock breeder and dairymen, that is ever held in the county.

Though the affair has been held regularly for several years, it will assume more important proportions this year, since it is to be the opening of the long talked of pure bred sire campaign. With the trial of the scrub sire as one of the outstanding features of the program, the pure bred bull will begin to come into his own. There is little doubt as to the fate of the scrub bull in the trial. It is even to be feared that the judge is prejudiced in favor of pure bred stock, at least he has spent several years of his life arguing in favor of a pure bred at the head of every herd.

Another angle of the booster day, which is perhaps more significant to outsiders than to the farmers themselves, is the fact that all breeds will be represented, and all will work for a common cause. The war of breeds will be forgotten and hatched battles in the effort to raise the standards of livestock generally. If the day is able to bring about a friendly spirit of co-operation between breeds, it will have done a great thing, even though nothing else is accomplished. In the words of John M. Kelley, advertising expert and cattle breeder, who fired the opening guns of the pure bred drive in La Crosse county some time ago at a meeting in West Salem, "There is room for all the pure breeds, regardless of breed, but there is no room anywhere for the scrubs."

BOYS WIN TRIP TO LEADERSHIP MEET

Wilbert Miller, from La Crosse, and Gordon Clark, of West Salem, were each awarded a trip to the fourteenth annual leadership course for boys and girls which is to be held at the college of Agriculture, Madison, from June 15th to 20th.

The boys won their trips to Madison at the fair last year. The Interstate Fair association offered a free trip to the boys' week course to the boy or girl who won the champion of reserve champion pig premium, any breed. Wilbert Miller was awarded the $15 for champion, any breed, and Gordon Clark for reserve champion, any breed.

WASHINGTON C. T. A. REPORT FOR MAY

Of the 443 cows tested, sixty-two produced forty pounds of fat, eighteen making over fifty pounds. Eleven herds averaged over thirty pounds fat this month. Oscar Gullord's herd of thirteen grade and registered Holsteins capturing first place.

Our five best averages rank as follows:

Name	Lbs. Milk	Lbs. Fat
Oscar Gullord	1,622.7	42.82
A. Hammes & Sons	1,512.2	35.12
P. Milna & Sons	1,168.2	38.47
J. E. Stromstad	782.6	36.15
Reinhold Dummer	528.3	34.30

Most herds went on grass to early this spring. The long feeding season and backward spring made feed stocks run low and grass came slow. A few members are still feeding grain, but the majority are depending on pastures to maintain milk flow. All leading dairy authorities agree that feeding grain even on good pastures to good cows is equally as profitable as feeding during winter months. A cow producing over a pound of fat a day should receive a good grain ration. On May and June pastures when the grass is succulent, and rich in protein, a good mixture consisting of equal parts by weight of corn, oats and bran will give good results. Later when pastures get thinner enough oil meal or other high protein feed should be added to make a twenty or twenty-five percent protein feed. Each one pound of feed to every pound of fat produced in one week or one pound of feed to every four or five pounds of milk, depending on percentage of fat.

STANDARDS OF THE HORSES IN STATE SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Use of Gasoline Cuts Total Number of Horses, But Works for Improvement of Quality

MADISON, Wis.—Although the gasoline engine has wrought havoc with the total number of horses in Wisconsin, the quality and type has been improved, and the pure bred horse brought to the front in a remarkable way, the state department of agriculture announces. Since registration work was started the total percentage of pure bred stallions is said by the department to have increased from 35 to 76.6 per cent.

But, according to the general situation confronting Wisconsin horses, the report declares that "there has been a tremendous check in breeding. Since 1909 the number of horses on Wisconsin farms has decreased nine per cent, while the cultivated area has increased 15 per cent; while 25 per cent and dairy cattle 47 per cent.

In many areas where each farm formerly produced an average of two or three horses, the same farms were producing only one colt for every six farms per year. This condition cannot go on. Horses on the farms are aging, and few young horses are being produced to take their places. The new demand for horses will soon come and find only a meager supply to fill it."

NEW ROTARY PLOW

INSPECTING THE "WONDER PLOW"

ELMHURST, Ill.—Hanshaw's rotary plow, a new invention, in the opinion of farmers, has come the "wonder plow."

Recent tests here show that the new plow turns the soil over and pulverizes it so that all the soil will pass through a sieve with one-inch mesh.

Herbert T. Hanshaw conceived the device which, experiments have conclusively proven, eliminates 90 per cent of the farmer's work in plowing.

"The purpose of the machine is not only to plow the soil, but to 'finish' it, that is, to prepare it for the immediate reception of seed. The new plow does this."

Under ordinary conditions farmers found that only about 29 per cent of the soil was pulverized finely enough after plowing to permit seeding, thus necessitating eight to ten different operations.

With the new machine, it is claimed, 90 per cent of the soil is pulverized in the first operation.

One of the features of Hanshaw's invention is that all surface vegetation is chopped up and mixed thoroughly with the seeded 15 inches deep.

comparing photo shows a close-up view of the drum. This drum does the work. It is covered with a series of plow shares and tears into the soil.

Another attraction which will be of wide interest is the judging contest. Some of the finest stock in the county will be on exhibition, though most of the cattle shown will be young stock. Farmers and dairymen do not care to transport milk cows, since it knocks them out of their regular production for a few days.

A livestock parade and concert by the boys' bands of West Salem, Bangor, Holmen and La Crosse, all under the direction of William Nichols, will be attractions.

The agricultural school grounds, which is to be the scene of the activities, will assume a circus like appearance with the erection of tents, borrowed from the fair association, to house the cattle.

BOOSTER DAY TO BE A BIG EVENT IN COUNTY SOON

Big Livestock Day to Be Held at Onalaska; Tentative Date Set for June 21

The annual livestock boosters' day of La Crosse county will be held at Onalaska soon, according to the announcement of the committee in charge. The date, at first set for June 14th, has been changed, due to several unlooked for conflicts, and the committee has now selected June 21 as the tentative date, though the latter date has not been definitely fixed. It will be announced as soon as it is finally decided.

One of the main features of the day will be the trial of the scrub bull. The scrub bull will be put on trial for his life. M. D. Munn, president of the national Jersey Cattle Club and the National Dairy Council, will preside at the trial, and will make an address later in the day. He is known as one of the best speakers on livestock subjects in the country.

Another attraction which will be of wide interest is the judging contest. Some of the finest stock in the county will be on exhibition, though most of the cattle shown will be young stock. ## 450,000 FARMERS IN UNITED STATES PRODUCE TOBACCO

Two Million Acres Devoted to Half-billion Dollar Industry in 1922

WASHINGTON—(A. P.)—A comprehensive picture of the American tobacco industry is contained in the 1922 yearbook of the department of agriculture which has just come from the press.

Although the tobacco crop covers only about one-half of one per cent of the acreage devoted to all crops in this country, it has a high value to the acre and requires a great deal of labor both in the growing and manufacture. Most of the crop is grown in a few states, Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia being the leaders, but some tobacco is grown in 42 states. The three named produce nearly two-thirds of the output, while Kentucky alone produces a third of the total.

In 1919, the latest year in which the figures are complete, tobacco was grown on nearly 450,000 farms. North Carolina stood first in value of the crop, Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, was the leading county in acreage and production. The internal revenue from tobacco amounted to nearly $300,000,000 yearly.

K. OF P. MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Seventy Members Take Part in Rituals at K. of P. Hall and Oak Grove Cemetery

Seventy Knights of Pythias took part in the annual memorial services conducted in the K. of P. hall, Fourth and Jay streets, Sunday afternoon. Rev. Robert D. Winter delivered the memorial address, stressing in his remarks the idea that in holding the services and decorating the graves, the members are not only honoring the deceased brothers, but are showing honor to the men who perished in the order.

Following the memorial ritual in the hall, the members drove to the Oak Grove cemetery, where they decorated the graves of Otto Leffler, the last member of the lodge who died.

The services Sunday were held jointly by the John P. Luten and Hamilton lodges of the Knights of Pythias.

The following officers were in charge: Chamberlain, Louis Robinson; Vice, Edmund C. DeLoe; Secretary, Robert C. Davidson; Master of Work, Myron Swenson; Keeper of Record and Seal, Philip Winell; Master of Ceremonies, Walter; Master of Finance, Ellis Langston; Inner Guard, Albert Wengeler; Outer Guard, John Klutz.

CONFERENCE TO DRAFT NEW TAX BILL PLANNED

were killed without even the formality of a roll call, as the slaughter continued.

No Time Wasted

The senators were set to clean up their program, mapped out early in the week before the disappearance of Senator Morgan. They wasted no time and allowed no interruptions to halt their steady advance.

Conservative Republicans maintained a solid front throughout the proceedings. By inflexible opposition, bolstered by defection within the Progressive Republican ranks, they killed almost everything of importance.

The three socialist senators likewise voted as a unit, and voted for each of the measures under consideration.

Senator Quick intimated that the Progressives did not appear to be very earnest in their desire for a new tax law, when certain members declared in vote against some of the measures just because, as one of them said, "the governor's name wasn't attached." Senator George Standenberger, declared that one condition of his support for any tax bill was that "Governor Blaine must have his name on it."

Division Brings Defeat

The roll calls all show that had the Progressives voted as a unit with Socialist support they would have passed any one of the bills under consideration by a vote of 18 to 15. There was no agreement among this faction, however, as evidenced by the divisions in all votes.

Senator H. J. Severson, considered the senate as the best possible member on taxation, seriously spoke during the entire proceedings. He voted for every feature of the finance committee measure which he helped to draft, and explained his own measure to the senate. This sort of plan, after his explanation, came within one vote of enactment. It was killed with the defection of Senators Standenberger and Bilgrien from the progressive ranks.

Only the Dahl bill remains before the legislature. This measure, over in the assembly may form the basis of a compromise tax plan that can get through both houses. With this plan in view, conferences this week at which Speaker Dahl says that conservatives will be present, are to be held.

Much will depend upon the attitude of the governor, according to progressive senators. They point out that he is most unfavorably to Speaker Dahl and might object to any plan that the Speaker has the slightest connection with. Developments now will determine whether there is to be any legislation at the present session. All efforts up to the present have proved futile.

Dahl Bill Up Thursday

MADISON, Wis. — The Dahl bill, originally set for action in the assembly on Wednesday, was Monday placed on the calendar for Thursday of this week. An unusually heavy calendar of business caused the change, according to Speaker John L. Dahl.

Some of the senate representatives of Governor Blaine approached Senator Severson today asking if they might be permitted to use his income tax measure as a substitute to the Dahl bill. Senator Severson, whose bill was killed by a vote of 18 to 15, with one progressive voting against it, told the governor's representative that he would consider the matter.

LA CROSSE Y. M. C. A. WINS INTER-CITY ATHLETIC MEET WITH EAU CLAIRE SATURDAY

In a hair raising finish, with the result hanging on the last event of the La Crosse Y. M. C. A. won the inter-city meet with Eau Claire Saturday in the aquatic city. Competing in eleven different kinds of sport, with a total of thirty three matches at stake, the two associations battled from 12 o'clock noon to 7:15 p. m. for supremacy. The climax came when the last event was reached. Each association had won sixteen firsts, and both secured this senior basketball game to win.

The local association led with a 14 to 8 score at the end of the first half. When the sixth blow only one point was needed by Eau Claire to tie the score. They had placed on the floor several fresh men while the La Crosse combination having expended in other events were pretty well tired out.

Fifty-seven men and boys made the trip, leaving in autos early in the morning and all but one machine making the return trip the same day. The best of times were reported by all and the La Crosse delegates were very much pleased with the sportsmanship and courtesy of their Eau Claire friends.

Other high spots in the meet was the making of four tank records by the La Crosse swimming team. Harrier in the 50 yards, Bruburn in the 100 yards, Schneberger in the 40 yards and the relay team all put up new marks.

The plucking of Christopher in the indoor baseball game attracted a large gallery. He stood the Eau Claire batters on their heads so quickly that they could not pick out the fast from the slow ones, and so just fanned in general direction of the home plate.

KENOSHA TO KEEP DAYLIGHT SAVING DESPITE NEW LAW

KENOSHA, Wis. — Walter H. Alford, president of the Kenosha city council, announced Monday afternoon that daylight saving would continue in Kenosha regardless of the law signed by the governor. Kenosha people voted by referendum to adopt daylight saving and the officials held that it must be continued by the city for a period set by the referendum vote. The officials said that they were not in revolt against state law, but that the state could not affect an ordinance which had already been passed.

FOREIGN CREWS IN NEW YORK HARBOR GET WINE RATIONS

NEW YORK. — Crews of Italian and French ships in New York harbor received their wine rations Sunday and will continue to enjoy them despite prohibition regulations to the contrary, the New York Times said Monday. The Times specified the seamen of the French liner France and the Italian liners Alberta and Argentina.

"The opinion among the foreign crews," the newspaper said, "seems to be that the serving of wine would be overlooked by the American authorities."

"So far as could be ascertained," the Times said, "there was no official basis for the foreigners' belief."

MIKE TUCKER NOT GUILTY OF FRAUD DEFENDANT SAYS

Sparta Man Enters Plea of Not Guilty in Wolf Bounty Fraud Case Monday Morning

Mike Tucker of Sparta arraigned before Judge Brindley in county court Monday morning charged with misrepresentation and fraud in securing bounty on wolf hides in the county, pleaded not guilty. He will be given an examination by Judge Brindley Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The case is not within the jurisdiction of the county judge, but Tucker will be given his examination before Judge Brindley, Louis C. Nagler, cashier in the office of the secretary of state, who discovered the alleged fraud, will appear as a witness Friday.

Mr. Nagler became suspicious when there was a sudden appearance of many wolf cubs in La Crosse county, as shown by the returns to the secretary of state's office.

It is alleged that Tucker presented the hides of 10 wolf cubs to Emil Knudson, chairman of the town of Canby, receiving a certificate from him later turning the hides over to one of the wolf cubs to county clerk Robert D. Stuts, receiving payment of the bounty. The 10 cubs were accounted by Stuts as wolves and destroyed. The state charges that the original ten wolf cub hides were used to collect bounty on 30 wolf cubs and that woodchuck hides were presented at the county clerk's office though Mr. Knudson issued the certificates on genuine wolf hides.

PINKEY OFFERS TO BOX LEONARD FOR CHICAGO BENEFIT

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Pinky Mitchell, Milwaukee junior welterweight champion boxer, is willing to box without remuneration at a benefit for the West Side Boys' club, Chicago, provided Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, is his opponent.

Announcement to this effect was made Monday following Leonard's recent offer to engage in a similar capacity.

A message was sent to Promoter Jim McEllen, Chicago, signifying Mitchell's willingness providing, however, insistently, that Leonard be his opponent.

"It occurs to me that Benny's offer is purely 'bank' and that his offer might have a sting tied to it, providing for an easy bout with a 'soft' antagonist," said Billy Mitchell, manager of his brother boxer. "In view of the extreme unsatisfactory outcome of the recent bout which yielded practically nothing to the cause for which it was fostered, a return engagement should be interesting and result in a tidy purse for the Boys' club."

MIAMI, Fla. — A sea monster thirty-five feet long and believed to weigh 20,000 pounds was harpooned and shot Sunday by a party from Miami off Marathon, about ninety miles south of Miami. Claude Nolan of Jacksonville wired from Marathon that they would try to land the fish at Long Key, famous as a fishing camp, about twenty miles north of Marathon. Fifty bullets from a high powered rifle had failed to stop the monster's struggles.

UNDER THE CAPITOL DOME

Odds and Ends of State Affairs by William J. Anderson

MADISON, Wis. — When one reviews the gyrations of the legislature upon the tax question since the governor's inaugural message discussed it, he can with difficulty escape the conclusion that the administration does not wish any tax bill passed. The attitude of the supporters of the administration, particularly in the senate, certainly gives this impression. The so called pledge to revise the tax laws has very little bearing on the situation. There certainly has not been manifested by the people of the state any desire to increase the burdens of taxation, yet every move of the administration leads in relation to the bills before the Legislature, has been in the direction of increasing taxes. The change proposed by the governor in the percentage of the income tax receipts to go in the state treasury, meant a big increase in the taxes of localities to make up for the income receipts they had been getting.

It all comes back to this, that no one who has yet presented a tax measure from the governor down has given to the subject one-one hundredth of the time necessary to evolve an intelligible change in the present tax system. There is plenty of ground for improvement in the present tax system, but none of the doctors of this regime have discovered it.

The Department of Public Instruction, has some strange questions put up to it, and the interesting thing is that the questions arise chiefly as a result of actual practice by school authorities. Thus the department had to write to an indignant citizen that: "A teacher has no more right to the use of the school house, for a dance than has any other resident of the district or for that matter any non-resident who might be traveling about the country, organizing and giving dances and charging admission."

SCRIBES CALL ON GIBBONS CHALLENGER SAYS MIND IS FREE OF WORRY OVER BOUT

SHIRLEY, Mont.—Newspaperman who Sunday went to the house in which Tom Gibbons, challenger of Jack Dempsey is living while training for the heavyweight championship bout here July 4, were met at the door by Mrs. Gibbons, who extended the hospitality of the Gibbons home, thus: "Tom is just amusing the baby; come right in, perhaps you can help."

The scriber found Gibbons sitting at the piano, holding the baby on his knee with one hand and picking out chords with the other. The coming of the reporters brought the challenger's solo to an abrupt conclusion but he continued in the role of nurse maid while he talked about the championship bout.

Gibbons believes there is no possibility of his losing the forthcoming battle with Dempsey and gives the impression that his mind is entirely free of worry. In his conversation he appeared to be more interested in prohibition than in boxing. Discussing prohibition, Gibbons said he thought that no reason why any man should want to drink whiskey, but thought that beer was not harmful if drunk in moderation. Gibbons is a total abstainer, Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons and their children attended mass at the Shelby Catholic church in the morning, after returning from his daily hike.

The challenger on Monday will pitch the first ball in a game to be played here and then will box a few rounds with Bud Gorman.

WEST ON ASCENSION IN NATIONAL LEAGUE; HOLDING ITS OWN IN THE AMERICAN

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—The west on the ascension in the National league and is doing better than holding its own in the American.

With tons of confidence, the eastern leaders of the National league in the west and were surprised and disappointed last week, should the teams beyond the Alleghenies continue to display the strength they have shown recently it would not be surprising to see three of them in the first division before another week ends, and in first place shortly after.

That the New York Giants can be beaten was shown by both Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Pirates did it once after spending some of their strength trouncing the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Giants and Pirates will resume their struggle today, having posted yesterday, the series now being even.

The biggest surprise of the week was the rise of the Chicago Cubs, who took two out of three from the Giants and with yesterday's 2 to 0 victory made it three straight over Boston, St. Louis, which was prevented by rain from playing Brooklyn yesterday, also made an exceptionally good showing, being in strong position to come back after losing one to the Red Sox.

Chicago after a flash of strength two weeks ago, has again come to the fore and much of the credit is due to Alvin Karpis, the Cuban twirler, who won his seventh game out of eight starts yesterday, beating Philadelphia 2 to 0.

One of the most remarkable games of the season was played before a

HAGEN OFF FORM IN QUALIFYING ROUND MONDAY

Smith of San Francisco in Far Better Form Takes Course in 75

TROON, Scotland.—The Associated Press.—Walter Hagen, who is defending his title as British open golf champion, had a difficult time in the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round Monday, taking an 82 on the new course.

Macdonald Smith of San Francisco was in far better form, going over the municipal course in 75.

Hagen was seldom straight from the tee, was frequently in the rough and often trapped getting into trouble on almost every hole. On his ball he had an unplayable lie and took a two stroke penalty and was right on the hole. On two holes coming in he required sixes. The greens, too, were often as troublesome as the fairways, several putts obstinately refusing to sink. His card: Out 454 255 896—41 In 865 516 444—41—82

JOE BUSH FINDS RED SOX TOUGH TEAM TO DEFEAT

Once upon a time Joe Bush was the star pitcher of the Boston Red Sox. That was after Joe had been sold to that team by Philadelphia, with which he had occupied a similar role.

A star in Boston seldom stays very long in the City of Culture. He is sold to New York. It was so in the case of Joe Bush.

Last season, in his first year as a Yankee, Bush had a big season, losing only seven games, but strangely enough four of the seven defeats were inflicted by his former teammates, the railroad Bostonians.

It looks as if the Sox is to continue this year. In his first start against Boston, Bush won after a tough battle. In his second start he was beaten, 5 to 2, despite the fact that he allowed only eight hits and struck out eight batters.

It also was the irony of fate that George Murray, traded to Boston for Deaneck, pitched the victory over Bush.

New York Ends Losing Streak and Gets Five Homers on Sunday

WASHINGTON TURNS BACK BROWNS AGAIN, 5 TO 3

Luque is Victor in Great Duel, Score, 2 to 1

NEW YORK.—The New York Yankees broke their losing streak on Sunday, defeating Cleveland, 8 to 7.

Cleveland made four home runs off Hoyt in the early innings, but offset this work at bat with four errors in the sixth inning. Hoffman cleaned the bases with a two larger in the sixth.

Smith, former Cleveland player, batted for Scott in the eighth and tied the score with a homer. The game was won by Ward's single in the eighth, following three passes.

Brower hit two of the Indians' homers. He injured his left leg sliding to the plate on the second one and was forced to leave the game.

The score: R H E Cleveland . . . 003 121 000—7 9 4 New York . . . 002 004 011—8 8 8

Griffis, 3; Brower, 3. WASHINGTON.—D. C.—(A. P.)—Washington bunched hits off Van Gilder in the fourth inning and took the second game of the series from St. Louis on Sunday, 5 to 3. Reds, 2; Philis, 1. CINCINNATI.—Lugue's effective pitching enabled the Reds to take the second game of the series from Philadelphia on Sunday, 2 to 1. Monaghan also pitched well except in the third inning, when three hits and an error by Sam Rice gave the visitors their only run. An error by Caveney, followed by two hits, saved the visitors from a shutout in the fourth.

It was a seventh victory for Lugue out of eight starts this season. The score: R H E Philadelphia . . . 000 100 000—1 11 2 Cincinnati . . . 002 000 000—2 8 2

Cubs, 3; Braves, 0. CHICAGO.—Vic Aldridge, bested Joe Genewick in a pitching duel on Sunday and Chicago shut out Boston, 3 to 0. Genewick had one bad inning, the second, when he gave up four runs and three hits, which included two triples, and scored all three runs. Aldridge kept the Braves' hits scattered and struck out home runs. He was given great support, the holding of Genewick being especially good. ## POZZLING PLAYS BY BILLY EVANS

With a runner on second base, the batsman hits a ground ball toward the shortstop. Two men are out and the runner on second dashes for third. The shortstop gets all set for the ball, and then as it nears him he decided if he takes one step backward he will be in better position to throw to first.

The runner coming up from second is directly behind him when he so decides. In taking the step back toward the batter, the runner goes into the left infield. The runner goes to his feet and scores ahead of the throw to the plate by the left fielder. There was no intent on the part of the runner to interfere. It was admitted by both sides that the fielder was really at fault for the mixup.

What is the proper ruling on such a play? THE INTERPRETATION The moment the runner going from second to third came into contact with the shortstop to make a play on the ball, he committed an interference and should have been called out, ruling the side.

It matters not whether there was any intent on his part. Neither does the fact that the shortstop was really responsible for the collision enter into the case. The fielder always has the right-of-way, and the base-runner must avoid him, regardless of how wide of the beaten path he must run to do so.

The run does not count, of course, because the interference retired the side and runners cannot advance on such an interference play.

REIMANS DEFEATED BY WEST SALEM ON SUNDAY, SCORE, 6-3

Three Costly Errors Behind Hoover Turn Victory to Salem Aggregation

The jolly Reimans, although out-playing and out-hitting their rivals last night to West Salem, 6 to 3, although Hoover outpitched his rival, his great work on the mound was offset by the ragged work of the infield which was guilty of committing three costly errors. The Reimans were able to garner 6 hits off the delivery of Gill. Hoover allowed West Salem but 5 hits, two of which were of scratch variety. West Salem started scoring in the first inning when Martin reached second on a fluke hit to Shimsak. Lovell recovering, overthrew second Martin taking third from where he scored on Dean's fly to Groh. Meinert fled out for the third out.

In the second Doyenbergh was safe on Bell's wild throw to first. Svensen forcing Doyenbergh to second. Monaghan hit to Lovell who threw out Svensen at second. Spaulding tripled, scoring Monaghan. Gill singled. Spaulding scoring and Burton's hit to Groh brought in Gill. Martin hit to Hoover who threw him out at first.

Salem got two more in the eighth when Burton was safe on Bell's error. Martin singled, Dean struck out. Meinert hit to pitcher, out at first. Doyenbergh walked. Svensen hit to Rogers who threw wild to first. Burton and Martin scoring. Monaghan fled out.

Reimans got two in the seventh inning. Shimsak and Lovell both safe on errors by Monaghan and Doyenbergh respectively. Bell singled, scoring Shimsak. Solie fled to Svensen who got Lovell between second and third. Hoover singled, scoring Bell. Hoover stole second, but was caught at third.

The Reimans scored one in ninth. Tanke tripled to right. Shimsak singled sending in Tanke. Bell singled sending Shimsak to third. Solie forced Bell at second. Hoover hit to Doyenbergh and was thrown out at first. Box Score.

NELSONS DEFEAT CALEDONIA, 3 TO 2, ON MUDDY FIELD

Big Benn Holds Minnesota Aggregation to Seven Blows on Sunday

WALTERS, MEREDITH, WOLL GET TWO-BASE DRIVES

Former Beloit Man on Mound for Caledonia

Big Benn and the La Crosse Nelsons came back out of Minnesota Sunday night with a second victory over Caledonia, 3 to 2. Rain fell throughout and the game was slowed up somewhat by the wet diamond and field.

With Winklerwender, former Beloit Fairy hurler on the mound, Caledonia was prepared to treat the local boys rougher than they did a week ago on the home park but nine hits and three errors behind his delivery gave the Nelsons sufficient falls to win.

The Benn pitched effectively against the Caledonians, allowing them seven singles from which they scored twice. The locals scored their first run in the fourth inning, each garnering one run apiece in the seventh and eighth sessions.

The only extra-base drives of the encounter were scored by Woll, Meredith and Walters. Meredith repeated his performance of last Sunday by stealing twice.

"Moppy" Anderson officiated behind the plate, with Kato in the field. His decisions in the two innings when Caledonia scored were reported shoddy.

TRAIN SHED BURNS AT N. Y. C. STATION IN PHILADELPHIA

Damage at Broad Street Station estimated at a Million Dollars

PASSENGER AND BAGGAGE CARS BURN ON TRACKS UNDER SHED

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Fire early Monday morning practically destroyed the train shed of Broad street station, the Philadelphia terminus of the Pennsylvania railroad. A quantity of mail and baggage cars and a number of passenger coaches also were consumed.

The flames did not reach the main building containing the waiting rooms and ticket offices. These, however, were damaged by water. The general offices of the company were not damaged.

There was no official estimate of the loss, but it was believed it would approximate at least $1,000,000.

The fire started shortly after 1 a. m. under the wooden platform in the train shed which covers several acres and spread so rapidly that many passengers in sleeping cars standing on the tracks had difficulty in making their escape. Dense columns of smoke poured from the shed and poured into the waiting-room and other parts of the station. Incoming passengers managed to grope their way through and find the exits. Hundreds of persons waiting for outgoing trains fled from the building when smoke began to come through the windows and doors. Intense excitement prevailed and to add to the confusion the lights went out in some parts of the station. Some of the arriving passengers spent the night at hotels, but the majority continued to their destinations when service was restored.

Railroad officials could not say what caused the blaze.

A round-up by the police and hospitals, showed that about 20 persons, none of them passengers, were slightly injured. The greater number were firemen.

There were nearly two hundred passengers in the ten sleeping cars in the station when the fire started. Monday all that remained of the great arched shed, one of the greatest in the world, when it was built more than forty years ago, was the skeleton framework and the side walls. When it was built it was proudly referred to by the railroad as the "portal to Philadelphia." It was 707 feet long, 307 feet wide and 160 feet high. The shed covered sixteen tracks and there were eight platforms.

MOVIES

"KINDLED COURAGE"

A man who thought he was a coward—a girl looking for a brother she doesn't know—is a hand-off-a haunted house—a rainstorm—these are some of the interesting plot elements in "Kindled Courage," at the Majestic theater which opened yesterday.

Edward (Hoot) Gibson has in this one of the most dramatic starring roles of his career. He portrays a young fellow who is firmly convinced of his own cowardice, but is getting mighty sick of being the butt of everybody's jokes.

At Hart, known as a western star himself, has an important supporting role as a bandit who is seemingly too slick to be caught by any sheriff or his whole gang of desperadoes. The most entertaining section of the story details the encounter between the timid youth and the gunman.

SEE CIRCUS AND MOVIES TOGETHER

The greatest human-interest story ever filmed will be shown at the Casino Theatre today. Thomas H. Ince's "Soul of the Beast" combines the thrilling human appeal of the real and the charm of the illusory unreal. It is the tale of the adventures of a little Cinderella of the circus who has entered all her starved affections in a great lumbering elephant "Oscar." The motherless girl is the drudge of a motherless circus troupe and target for the ill-nature of a bullying step-father until one night there comes a great cyclone destroying the entire circus. Oscar and Ruth escape into the Canadian woods where they meet with astounding adventures.

Told for the most part beneath the great trees of the Canadian bar-woods, the story is full of the poetry of the outdoor world as well as the dramatic thrills. This picture is one that every member of the family will enjoy to the utmost.

But especially will the youngster, for what kiddie doesn't love the circus, with its menagerie of growling ferocious wild animals, its white-tightened acrobatic ladies doing perilous stunts on trapezes high up in the dome of the white canvas tent, its grotesque clowns and pink leopards, and above all, its lumbering big elephants?

A NEW SALOME

Malcolm Strauss, a well known producer of beautiful women, is the producer of "Malcolm Strauss' Salome," the magnificent and dazzling picture which is shown at the Majestic theater Tuesday. Mr. Strauss picked Diana Allen, the Follies dancer, as the most perfect type of beauty to play the role of Salome, and himself designed the sets and the costumes.

"THE ISLE OF LOST SHIPS"

"The Isle of Lost Ships," which is coming to the Rivoli theater on Wednesday for a four day engagement, discloses new possibilities of screen grandeur and beauty. It is a story to thrill the most blasé. It is a fine, human, American-made story, breathing wholesome ideals and fraught with a spirit of adventure.

And the cast is worthy of the story. Anna Q. Nilsson plays the role of the shipwrecked society girl, Milton Sills is the hero, a condemned but innocent man, and Frank Campana is Jackson, the detective. Others of importance in the excellent company are Walter Long, Bert Woodruff, Aggie Herring and Irene Hunt.

"THE HEART RAIDER"

Thanks to a good story and excellent handling, "The Heart Raider" is very entertaining and an exceptionally good picture. It plays at the Rivoli for today and Tuesday. It opened yesterday to packed houses. Mahlon Hamilton makes a good hero and Agnes Ayres an excellent heroine. The story revolves around a young heroine of destructive disposition, whose pranks cost her father much money and worry, until he decides to have her insured for possible future damages. The hero, woman later, decides to run away from the heroine, but the heroine follows him to Florida and to make good her word to her father to the effect that within thirty days she would make him marry her.

BAKERY THIEF FLEES BEFORE PIE BARRAGE

Chicago Bakery Lady Puts Burglar to Rout With Straw-berry Pies

CHICAGO.—It was Sunday afternoon and there was a lull in the stream of customers that came to Mrs. Mary Warner's bakery at 855 West 18th street. Mrs. Warner herself, glad of the respite—"At 50 I am not so young as I was," she would say—sat down and comfortably surveyed a row of newly baked strawberrypies that lay cooling on the counter ere they decorated her shelves.

A shadow fell across the pies and dispelled her musings. She looked up. In the doorway stood a tall and ugly man, his hands deep in his coat pockets.

"Yes?" queried Mrs. Warner politely, as the man came slowly towards her. "What can I do for you?"

Both Hands Full

For answer the man pulled out his hands, a revolver in each. Mrs. Warner saw them and began to think, think more quickly than she had ever done in her life. An idea came. With her sweetest smile she moved quietly towards the pies, apparently unconscious of the revolver.

"You'd like some pie, I suppose," she smiled on the bandit.

"I want what's in the till and I want it—," he began, then—splash!—and a perfectly new strawberrypie spread itself lovingly over his face.

Not for nothing had Mrs. Warner watched Charlie Chaplin and his uncanny skill with the custard pie. With a perfect action she flung pie after pie at the bandit till it was hard to tell which was which.

No Time for Shooting

As the first pie hit him he dropped one revolver and tried to clear his eyes. As the second got there, down went the other revolver and he went after the work of excavation with both hands.

The third pie routed him and he fled for the door.

LAWSUIT TO SETTLE TITLE OF ROMANTIC FAR EASTERN ISLE

Ownership of Island Where Richard Coeur de Lion Was Wrecked in Dispute

RELGRADE.—Lacroma Island, where Richard Coeur de Lion was shipwrecked when he was sailing up the Dalmatian coast from the Holy Land figures in a lawsuit recently heard in the Jugo-Slav courts.

The little island, which lies about half a mile from the shore of Ragusa, has had a romantic history. Richard Coeur de Lion built a monastery on it in gratitude for being saved from the sea. More recently it had two unhappy royal owners. Emperor Maximilian of Mexico and the ill-fated Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria.

Prince Rudolf's daughter, Elizabeth, received the island as a part of her dowry when she married Otto Windischgratz who is concerned in the recent legal proceedings. The town of Ragusa attempted to have the island transferred to the state according to the Treaty of St. Germain. But Princess Elizabeth, the owner, who is living divorced from her husband at Baden, asserts that she is no longer a member of the Hapsburg family, as she renounced all her rights on the occasion of her marriage.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL TO VIROQUA RESIDENT

His skull was crushed and he lived but a few minutes.

Mr. Gorsline moved back to the farm from this city in January having concluded his term of office as sheriff of Vernon county. He was past 70 years of age. His wife and one daughter, Mrs. Oscar Kingsley, survive. A brother, Arthur Gorsline, and other near relatives reside in this city.

SEVERSON ACT EFFECTIVE IN ENFORCING DRY LAW SAYS FEDERAL DIRECTOR

(BY TIMMONS)
WASHINGTON, D. C.—Prohibition Commissioner Haynes Monday made public the result of prohibition enforcement in Wisconsin in the two years in which Haynes has occupied the office of prohibition commissioner. The report indicated that if the senate concurs in the action of the lower house and repeals the Severson law it will be a real blow to prohibition enforcement. Without mentioning the possibility of repeal Haynes declared that the state courts rather than federal courts are being used in Wisconsin for the handling of liquor cases.

"In nearly all state cases aid was given by federal agents," Haynes said. "A large number of cases were instigated by federal agents but were taken into state courts because it is much easier to operate under state laws than federal. Few inspections were made during 1921, and no record was made of them. During 1922, 725 inspections were made, mostly in drug stores, wholesale and retail, and breweries. People generally are being made to know the necessity of enforcing prohibition laws by the number of convictions obtained. A great number are in favor of enforcement and are reflecting their opinion and desire in local courts."

Statement of the accomplishments in Wisconsin during the calendar years 1921 and 1922 as reported by the federal prohibition director, were as follows:

	1921	1922	Total
State convictions for violation of prohibition law	1,496	5,567	7,063
Fines collected by the state	$281,641.03	$ 498,644.15	$ 780,185.18 (a)
Federal convictions	317	229	546 (b)
Fines collected (federal court)	55,888.00	167,314.00	$223,202.00
Federal jail sentences	34	41	75
Automobiles seized by federal agents	14	21	35
Aliens convicted (federal court)	54	51	105 (c)
Total taxes assessed, federal law	$977,167.94	$2,001,309.26	$2,978,377.20

(a) This is exclusive of fines collected under city authorities.

(b) During 1922 this office operated extensively in the state court under the state law.

(c) It will be noted that eight percent of the convictions in federal court were of aliens but approximately ninety percent of the violations of the federal prohibition act and the state prohibition act, were by persons of foreign nationality.

"The laws of Wisconsin provide that it shall be unlawful for any person to secrete or destroy any fluids on premises being searched for the purpose of preventing the seizures of such fluids by the commissioner or any peace officer," Haynes continued. "That vehicles found to be illegally transporting liquor are subject to seizure and sale; that specific authority is placed upon the prohibition commissioner and his assistants to enforce prohibition laws, that it shall be unlawful to receive or solicit orders or to give any information where liquor may be obtained; that advertising of apparatus or ingredients or manufacturing of home brew shall be forbidden; and further it assumes through its own laws concurrent responsibility."

Charges of Monopoly and Conspiracy to Suppress Competition Made by Board

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Representatives of the federal trade commission Monday opened hearings on its charge that the Northwestern coal dock operators' association has conspired to suppress competition and to create a monopoly in the coal business.

The complaint names ten coal companies. Among the specific allegations in the complaint are that they sell for less in the Twin Cities than in Duluth, cut and raise prices to force competitors into the association, and supply coal to their own retail departments at less than prices charged others.

The association and individual companies deny the allegations but admit circulation of credit information as a rightful trade practice.
